Before You Teach

In 1 Thessalonians 5:17, we are told to “pray continually.” Philippians 4:6 says to “bring up all of your requests to God in your prayers.” In Ephesians 6:18, we are told to “offer prayers and petitions in the Spirit all the time.” The message seems clear—we are to pray! Peter’s friends in the early church took these teachings to heart. Peter was in prison as a result of King Herod’s persecution of Christians. The outlook for Peter was bleak. What could his fellow Christians do? They could pray!

Even though Peter’s friends were praying for him, they probably did not expect Peter to be freed from prison. It is not likely they were praying for an angel to rescue Peter from prison. If they were, they might not have been so surprised and unbelieving when Peter appeared at their door. It is possible Peter’s friends did not know specifically what result they should pray for; they simply knew the response to this situation, as it is in any situation, was prayer.

God heard the prayers lifted up on Peter’s behalf, and God answered the prayers. However, the answer was unexpected—God sent an angel to rescue Peter from prison. The female servant who answered the door when Peter arrived was so surprised to see him, she closed the door and left Peter standing outside! She then had a difficult time convincing the others that Peter was indeed at the door. Even though they were in prayer for Peter, this was not what they expected.

This story contains some valuable reminders. First, we are reminded of the importance of praying for others. We can talk with God, not only about our own needs, but also about the needs of others, for those we know and love, and even for those people unknown to us. Even when we are unsure what a person needs, we still can pray for them because God knows. Second, sometimes God answers our prayers in unexpected ways. We believe God hears and answers our prayers. We need to remember the answer may not be the one we were expecting.
